

January 31, 2008 | RealVail REAL-E NEWSLETTER

Hello from Vail, where we've been getting absolutely hammered by snowstorm after snowstorm this month (nearly 20 feet so far this season), and welcome to the first edition of realvail.com's Real-E Newsletter.

Real-E will periodically deliver subscribers comprehensive updates, interesting news and unfettered access to the Vail Valley. We promise not to overload your inbox with a lot of useless info, just relevant news, exciting events, answers to frequently asked questions and ideas on how best to enjoy life in the mountains - all brought to you by long-time Vail locals.

You're receiving this if you registered for Real-E, sent us an Ask a Local e-mail question, responded to a realvail.com press release or contacted one of the RealVail principals about the site. If you do not wish to receive occasional Real-E updates and would like to stay in the dark about the Vail Valley, then click here.

Surefoot Ski Boot Giveaway

Though we went live in early September (and are already averaging 3,000 unique visits a month), RealVail held its official holiday launch party at Samana Lounge in Vail Village Dec. 21, where we gave away tons of great product from Performance Sports and Roxy and registered people to win a pair of $700 ski boots from Surefoot. Click here to read about the winner of the first of many realvail.com contests to come.

Homecoming for Jarnot

New Vail Mountain chief operating officer Chris Jarnot grew up in the Valley, attending Eagle Valley High School and once living in the abandoned mining town of Gilman. Now the man who once unloaded buses at Beaver Creek during school breaks is coming home to run the mountain. RealVail asks him to look into his crystal ball.
